

MICHAEL MORCOS

Partner - Heidrick & Struggles

- Michael Morcos is the managing partner of the firm's Middle East & North Africa Practice. He is based in our Dubai office, where he is also a member of the Financial Services, Private Equity, Energy, Natural Resources and Global Technology & Services practices
- Fluent in Arabic, Michael is a governor of the GCC Board Directors Institute. With more than 15 years in international management consulting, recruiting and executive search, Michael has brought his expertise to clients in the Middle East and North Africa on key issues such as board alignment, leadership development, leadership assessment and executive search. Michael's clients in the Middle East and North Africa include ruling families, governments, government holdings, industrial conglomerates and financial institutions
- Before joining the executive search profession, Michael worked with McKinsey & Company in their Middle East office, where he played a leadership role in the global energy, industrial and basic metals practices. Michael also headed McKinsey's graduate and undergraduate recruitment in the United Kingdom
- Previously Michael spent more than a decade in international operational and management roles in the oil and gas industry with Schlumberger and Atlantic Richfield Corporation (ARCO)
- Michael holds a MSc in aerospace engineering from Stanford University, Paolo Alto, California. He also holds a B. Eng in aeronautical engineering from Imperial College London